P. R. MILNER

The opinions expressed in this column are the personal views of the writer and do not necessarily reflect those of the newspaper. It is the policy of this paper to print all letters that are sent to it.

SEES THE LIGHT

It is indeed a pleasure to welcome the paper created by Senator Sherrill the "Maritime Gazette," to the list of journals within the country supporting the war, or unpledged Republican delegation. Of course it was logical to assume that having been the floor leader of Governor Merriam in the State Senate, he would naturally, logically and politically be inclined to see "me too" for the Merriam-Hearst state, but abundant publicity in the local columns of the Gazette the past week in support of the free and untrammelled ticket, headed by Warren, although editorial utterance has been lacking, would indicate that the Senator has either seen a great, white light or realized the error of his ways.

ABOUT CHURCHES

Although not an occupant of the "seat of the scornful" neither have I ever been admitted to the "holy of holies."

Despite my lack of affiliation with any church, creed or denomination I am a firm believer in the church as an institution for moral and spiritual uplift, and progress in any community.

My early church environment was of the Methodist persuasion and although I have never practiced or lived up to its tenets, my spiritual life is naturally inclined in that direction. Frankly I have forgotten many of the teachings, but what I do remember is that my father and mother never by word or action violated the faith they professed. If the church does that to any man or woman it has amply justified its existence.

I do not care what the church may be, Catholic or Protestant, it is a power for good and a deterrent to evil, and should be encouraged in its work.

A FLEA

These remarks are prefatory to a plea I am about to voice in behalf of one of our local churches, the First Christian. No payment has been made on the debt on the edifice for a number of years, and no interest has been paid. The church has fallen on evil days financially, the depression seemingly offitful.

ETHIOPIANS FLEE FROM CAPITAL

ITALY ARMY AT DOOR OF ADDIS ABABA

ADDIS ABABA, April 30.—The Ethiopian imperial government evacuated Addis Ababa tonight when panting runners and refugee foreign Red Cross workers arrived to report Italian camp fires twinkling behind the hills ringing the capital.

Utmost confusion prevailed here with invading Black Shiri troops sweeping triumphantly across the rich Debra Birhan plain a trimotor and Caproni bombing plane machine gunned the Addis Ababa airfield at Akaki. Anti-aircraft guns fired at the Italian plane, causing the sound of gunfire to echo through the capital.

TROOPS ARE CALLED.—All available men in Addis Ababa were rushed into the mountains between the capital and Debra Birhan in preparation for a last desperate effort to stem the Italian advance. But their movements resulted in even greater confusion.

Emperor Haile Selassie, maintaining his field headquarters in the nearby hills, ordered troops going forward to fall back. His Majesty ordered 3000 of his own men back of Addis Ababa not to fight for possession of the city. He hoped for a bloodless occupation. Resistance, he feared might cost the lives of many non-combatants and endanger foreigners.

POLICE AT POSTS.—Ethiopian police commanders were ordered to remain at their posts with their men until the last.

Charles Otten, 46, Richmond pool room employee and former owner of a local beer parlor, will appear before Justice of the Peace J. E. Christensen in San Pablo tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock to be arraigned on charges of assault with intent to commit bodily harm. The charges were sworn to by Harry McAndrews of San Pablo. At the same time Deputy District Attorney Homer Patterson revealed that a second charge has been preferred against Otten by a woman giving the name of Ruth Kersey, 36, of 631 California street, San Pablo, who is McAndrews' housekeeper. The charge by Mrs. Kersey is assault with intent to commit murder. This warrant has not yet been served.

MANY HURT AS CYCLONE HITS EAST

MILFORD, Iowa, April 30.—Three persons were killed, a score injured and hundreds of thousands of dollars of property damaged tonight by a tornado which twisted its way eastward along the Iowa-Minnesota boundary.

The storm rose in the northwest part of Iowa, centered on Lake Okoboji, Iowa, a summer resort, and then howled along 200 miles of the state line before it blew itself out.

HOUSES DESTROYED.—Houses, barns, outbuildings, and farm homes were leveled by the wind, which was followed by torrential rain and hail.

Five farm families were brought here for first aid treatment. Six persons were treated for fractures here. Others suffered injuries from flying debris.

MANY INJURED.—Nearby hospitals were filled to capacity within a few hours after the storm.

Patients were brought to them over roads turned into swamps by heavy rains that followed the storm.

Not for several hours were farmers from outlying districts able to fight their way through. Additional storm victims were being received constantly. The rural area surrounding Estherville, Iowa, apparently bore the brunt of the storm.

Strike In Coal Fields Averted.—NEW YORK, April 30.—A strike of 106,000 coal miners in eastern Pennsylvania was averted late tonight when miners and operators agreed to continue the present contract until a new agreement is reached.

The announcement was made less than two hours after Assistant Secretary of Labor Edward F. McGrady arrived from Washington to attempt to work out a compromise and prevent the walkout, scheduled for midnight.

MINING CAMP SCENE.—The interior of the Gardens has been decorated to represent an old time western mining camp, including the saloon, "gambling" devices and a county jail.

In addition to the other forms of amusement there are musical novelties presented each evening.

A feature of the celebration will be a parade on Sunday morning at which time cups will be awarded to the best entrants.

Radio Club Will Meet Here Tonight

Important business matters will be discussed this evening when the Richmond Radio Club holds its meeting at the city hall at 8 o'clock.

Hugh T. Caudel, the president, will preside over the session.

FEED POSTPONED.—The bean "feed" planned for this evening by the El Cerrito Town-and-Club has been postponed. A business meeting will be held instead.

TRAGEDY IN AIR.—The tragedy began high in the air and ended on the rocky beach near Third and Central avenue, a bare 20 feet from the water's edge. Alamedaans said they saw the plane doing "wing overs" and "verticals." Then spectators, even as far away as San Francisco Bay Air-drome, where the ship was lashed (Continued on page 5)

DEATH TRY OF WITNESS PREVENTED

NEW YORK, April 30.—UP—Harry Weiss, the taxicab driver who lived in fear of death by bullets because of his part in the kidnaping of Paul H. Vendel, tried to kill himself to lay with a necktie.

Guarda hurrying down the corridor of Brooklyn city prison, got before he could hang himself. They immediately clamped handcuffs on him and pushed a chair against the cell, with instructions not to take his own life.

PART CONFESSED.—Weiss came to New York from Ohio two days and to surrender and confess his part in the kidnaping of Vendel, a disbarred Trenton attorney who was forced to "confess" that he murdered the Lindbergh baby a time when New Jersey was ready to execute Bruno Richard Hauptmann for the crime.

He was in city prison because District Attorney William F. X. Geoghan feared somebody—presumably the "higher ups" who are alleged to be implicated—might make an attempt on his life. To make sure that Weiss stayed away from harm, his hair was fixed at $50,000 (Continued on page 8)

NINE WOMEN, 3 MEN WILL HEAR CASE

After considerable jockeying all day between District Attorney Francis P. Healey and Attorney Leo Sullivan in the exercise of peremptory challenges, the latter suddenly announced yesterday afternoon that "the defense is satisfied with the jury as now constituted," and the dog track case was on its roof, wool way.

TWO ALTERNATES CHOSEN.—The selection of an alternate juror was agreed to and then Healey had the happy inspiration that the lady in that capacity might be jocular, so the first order was vacated and the one substituted provided for the selection of two alternates. Adjournment was then taken until this morning at 10 o'clock in order to give the attorneys time to get their witnesses, the task of jury selection having been accomplished in less time than anticipated, thus leaving them unprepared to go ahead.

THE JURY.—ERNEST MARTIN, Richmond, carpenter.
MRS. IDA L. HOBLITT, San Pablo, housewife; husband a painter.
T. R. BARNETT, Pacheco, farmer.
MRS. MADGE H. RECTOR, Richmond, housewife; husband a carpenter.
MRS. LEONIE HENRICHSEN, Martinez, housewife; husband a carpenter.
MRS. R. JEANETTE LE SCHENKY, Walnut Creek, housewife; husband a carpenter.
MRS. ETHEL G. BRYAN, San Pablo, housewife; husband a stillman.
MRS. ELIZABETH HUBBARD, Pittsburg, housewife; husband a steel worker.
MRS. MARY MORRIS, Martinez, housewife; widow.
MRS. ULDINE SUTLIFF, Richmond, housewife; husband a peddler.
MRS. MARTHA PICKERING, Richmond, housewife; husband a clerk.
MITCHELL SLOBOLO, Richmond, C. O. D. Cleaning Works.
ALTERNATES.—BELLE BARBAGALLO, Antioch, housewife; husband a painter.
SEWARD HUNN, Pittsburg, retired.

EXAMINED.—Ninety-four veniremen were examined before the jury was constituted.

Dogs End Race
In Nose Finish

Equating the El Cerrito track record of 32 seconds, Brown Jug, owned by E. J. Thompson, stuck his nose over the line a fraction of a second ahead of Buddy Mac and Undertaker in the elimination finals.

Down the backstretch Brown Jug led by five lengths, but the latter pair put on steam in the stretch and all three dogs hit the finish line at the same time in one of the prettiest finishes in history. One step farther and Brown Jug would have lost. It was mighty close.

Answer: It is hard to make a definite estimate for the season not all cases are correctly diagnosed and a complete record is kept. However, it is probable that amoebic dysentery is far more common than is generally realized. A laboratory examination need to establish the diagnosis conclusively.

PROTECTION OF CHILDREN URGED BY P.T.A.

SAN JOSE, April 30.—UP—The California Congress of Parents and Teachers entered the final stages of its annual convention today after going on record demanding protection for children from the temptations and hazards of the "jazz age."

Pleas for safeguards for school children against modern evils were embodied in resolutions urging legislation and enforcement against moral dangers.

Included on the list were: sale of liquor to minors; drunken driving; unclean films, and pin-ball and other easily available gambling devices.

In all cases, the 3500 delegates asked that law enforcers "clamp down" on the evils and keep them out of arm's reach of young children. They asked that statutes concerning sale of liquors to persons under 21 be enforced more rigidly; that licenses of drunken drivers be confiscated; that whole-hearted support be given movements for wholesome films, and that opportunities for wasting "lunch money" be diminished.

The delegates went on record against the single tax initiative which will be placed before California voters in November. They asserted in a resolution that a single tax system would place the State schools in a "dangerous position" financially, and advocated a hands-off policy regarding the sales tax, now looked upon as the schools' chief source of revenue.

MRS. HUBBARD IS HONORED ON BIRTHDAY

Mrs. Tillie Hubbard celebrated her 62nd birthday at a surprise birthday party given by a group of her friends at her home in San Pablo recently.

The guests came laden with food and gifts. The afternoon was spent in games.

Those who came to help "Mother" Hubbard spend the day were Mesdames Nora Christensen, Mary Addens, Lena Rasmussen, Margaret Verran, Etta Lite, Thelma Peterson, Dorothy Adcock, Nellie Meach, Eugene Bird.

Mesdames Thelma Norden, W. Morri, P. Kerber, Joseph Costello, Ethel Petrich, Roxie Rogers, JQ. Felciano, Clara Homo, Mary Chisto, Theresa Chetto, Frances Stark, John Erler, A. Martz and William Remell.

Alton Hubbard, son of the honoree, was also present.

Murder Case Clue Proves Unfounded

What was at first believed to be a clue in the mysterious F. H. Eubanks slaying in San Pablo in 1934 was exploded yesterday when a 45 calibre gun taken from a person under arrest proved to have no connection with the case.

Local police knew the history of the gun turned over to E. O. Heinrich, Berkeley criminologist. According to the officers the gun was in Alaska at the time of the murder.

Sheriff John A. Miller, however, is continuing his investigation into the baffling mystery.

Local Man Is Killed When Plane Falls

The plane fell near the Southern Pacific tracks, and crowds which gathered to watch the Alameda Fire Department spray chemicals over the charred plane held up commuters.

Alameda firemen went into the wreckage with saws to bring out the two bodies, both of them burned almost beyond recognition.

KILLED IN FALL
Some of the residents of the district said a slight explosion was heard shortly before the mass of wreckage hit ground. Immediately on hitting it was dropped in flames because of the great height the plane fell and because of the jagged character of the rocks upon which it fell observers were certain the men were dead when the plane hit.

Unaware of the tragedy, Mrs. Alt Seeley Jenkins, 35, wife of one of the men, was shopping in downtown Oakland early yesterday afternoon.

The could not be reached and a sister feared the effect upon her of suddenly learning of the catastrophe.

A sister-in-law of Jenkins revealed that the man had taken flight lessons for only a short time.

PLANE IN FLAMES
The shattered pieces of the plane took fire upon hitting the ground and burned.

The tragedy occurred shortly after noon. Attaches of the Johnson Flying Service, saw it so in a spin.

The saw it disappear behind buildings. Moments later they were horrified to see a black pall of smoke rise in the line of vision.

TRAINS DELAYED
As the plane fell, clouds of burning gasoline sprayed over the beach and throngs of the curious were endangered. The ship narrowly missed several south shore houses, falling within a few feet of one.

The plane fell near the Southern Pacific tracks, and crowds which gathered to watch the Alameda Fire Department spray chemicals over the charred plane held up commuters.

YOUR GOOD HEALTH

The Doctor Considers Two Cases of Problem Children

By CLAUD NORTH CHRISMAN, M.D.
BEFORE me are two letters of similar import. Both are of so much consequence that I think you must hear them. Both concern a child in pre-adolescence and both bring a mother's complaint that her child is queer. There is probably no more serious a trouble than this. Even actual disease cannot harm a young child more than to have something go wrong with his general development and have these nearest him fail to understand.

Trying to force him to satisfy his own expectations is just as bad. The first mother says "I wonder if you will help me in my terrible trouble. My son is twelve years of age and is not able to keep up in fourth grade work. He is the only child and a bit spoiled. Do you suggest I ought to take him to a brain doctor and find out the cause of his lack of learning?"

Here is the second mother speaking: "My son, nine years old, has been doing a lot of day dreaming in school and also at home. At times he acts dumb when spoken to. In the last year I have noticed this queer action. Up to now he has been a very bright child with good averages in his school work, but always very nervous from babyhood.

Where Shall We Begin?
"He has been fed as a child should be and has kept regular hours of rest and sleep. He has never been really sick except with measles, which left some kidney trouble though it only bothered him when he has a cold. What do you think would make a child act as he does and still be intelligent and full of pep at play?"

Where shall we begin? First, I think, by hoping there is nothing "terrible" about the trouble in either case. In neither one does there seem to be any physical ailment that is significant. Some irritation in the kidneys after measles is very common and while it should not be overlooked, it will probably be overcome as the boy grows older.

An example of retarded standing in the public school is not necessarily a case for the brain specialist. And certainly we do not want the child to think that we question his normal intelligence.

It is rather surprising that youngsters do as well as they do in our large public schools when the same type of teaching must be fitted to so many different types of children. A most interesting incident occurred recently in one of our most progressive schools. A club of girls ranging from eight to eleven was having a visiting speaker for their meeting. A discussion program was put on which moved along with considerable interest.

The Innocent Victim
Later the leader learned that the pupils who had entered into the discussion with the most intelligence and enthusiasm were from the school's ungraded department, where they were led to think and act on their own initiative. The school pupils who reacted so glibly in the regular class rooms only hung their heads when asked questions that were not in the book.

Some very rapid changes are taking place in our educational system and perhaps we may hope that some day, we shall stop this rather stupid way of trying to make all children conform to one standard.

It isn't fair to say that a child has "failed" until we see what the years can do for him. I could fill a book with the cases I have treated—nerves, headaches, eye squint, anemia, temper, loss of appetite—all because "teacher" had been severe and scolded over an unlearned lesson. Later we shall consider what is really happening to the innocent victim in the case.

QUESTION: "When three persons are dining, two women and one man, how should they be seated?"—B. C.

ANSWER: The women should be seated facing each other with the man between them.

QUESTION: "There are times in our around when a fellow will bring along a friend, someone who is a total stranger to us, or when a girl will bring along a friend or cousin. Is it proper to call them by their first or second names?"—Frances.

ANSWER: If John brings Bob and they are John and Bob to each other, then the newcomer's second name may be disregarded. But if John (assuming that he is just plain John to you) brings along someone whom he calls Mr. Fox, then the whole crowd follows suit.

QUESTION: "How should meals be announced?"—P. L.

ANSWER: "Dinner (or other meal) is served."

Guide to Charm

Noon Lull Calls for a Beauty Aid

By JACQUELINE HUNT
AT NOONTIME there comes a lull in the day's occupation—whether you are a business girl who has pounded a typewriter and attended conferences all morning or a homemaker who has spent the morning housecleaning, shopping and cooking.

Take time to freshen your skin, renew your make-up and tidy your hair whether you sit down to a quick lunch in the kitchen or with an executive.

No matter how simple your beauty and living program, you should give your skin a thorough cleansing in the middle of the day, and use a quick-melting cleansing cream. It is a time-saver if you are at home and much more convenient than trying to wash your skin and renew your make-up with the facilities that most wash-rooms afford.

Pin your hair out of the way, apply a liberal film of cream and leave it on a minute to seep into the pores and loosen dust and make-up. Wipe away with tissues and repeat if your skin is badly soiled.

Then rinse with cold water, pat your skin dry with a soft towel or tissue and you are ready for new make-up.

Apply cream rouge if you have time to do a good job of it. If not, powder first, fluffing it on generously, brush away the excess and then apply compact rouge. Moisten a corner of a tissue or your fingertip and retouch each eyebrow to remove any powder that may have lodged there.

Moisten your comb with warm water, run through your hair, then push waves and curls into place. Rub your hands and apply a hand lotion. You will feel greatly refreshed and you will enjoy your luncheon more.

If your skin is very oily, then use a liquid cleansing lotion on small cotton pads, going over your skin with a fresh one until there is no sign of soil. Most of these liquid cleansers will leave your skin ready for make-up without a base of any kind.

Combined with the right care at night, this noontime cleansing will keep the average skin in excellent condition and will improve the skin that is not at its best at present.

At night, cleanse your skin with a bland, free-lathering soap and tepid water. For the dry skin, apply a thin film of softening cream and leave on ten minutes to half an hour and remove the excess with tissues. Then give your skin a final rinse with very cold water or if the tissues are flabby, your skin oily, give it a vigorous upward and outward massage with a piece of ice wrapped in a cheese cloth or astringent.

Skin tonic or astringent may occasionally take the place of the cold rinse or ice rub.

Whether you get along with a few cosmetics or use a lot of them, be sure that they are exactly right for your skin. One really good cream that agrees with your skin can be used for cleansing, softening and a make-up base and one good tonic or astringent will keep your skin youthful and young.

It is nice to have two or three sets of make-up for different moods and occasions. Still every woman can get along with one good rouge and a powder that matches her skin perfectly.

A small cup of olive oil in your bathroom has no end of uses. Try rough chapped skin and for softening your hands and cuticles.

Women are in the mood for suit types and are wearing them in everything from mannish woollens to womanish chiffons.

A silk suit, the jacket of which may be worn with different skirts, is a good type in which to invest. It is a season of printed suits, but the jacket or skirt of such a suit may be, without losing its face, mated to a plain fabric.

Appropos the hat and try over prints. I am reminded to tell you that brides have added daintily printed lingerie to their trousseaux—printed nighties, sheer of course, are extremely effective. I also hear that Helen Yrandon, whose Paris showings were so much admired, reports that turn-of-the-century lingerie shade, alone or pleasantly combined, with peach among other things.

Mention has recently been made of white, or pastel ground floral designs suggesting, as you must see at once, wallpaper.

Smart, very new and summery, are small colorful prints on white paper—taffeta grounds, an effect which has not been done before and has lots of youthful appealing charm to recommend it as well as its newness.

Slender, finely pleated gowns are bound to be summer favorites. For them many fabrics are chosen, most of them sheer. For dresses of a more severe line there is nothing that takes the place of taffeta.

A Stunning Street Ensemble

Gay multi-colored flowers, cut from a Shantung print, are applied on the collar, revers and cuffs of the bolero and at the neck of the dress. Navy blue sheer is the fabric used for this costume, so smart for daytime.

Taffeta Suit Good Type For Season

By IRENE VAIL
New York—Of all the myriads of prints seen about and about to be seen, none look fresher than widely spaced designs.

Not as easy to wear perhaps but very smart on the right sort. I fancy there will be more and more taffeta suits.

Women are in the mood for suit types and are wearing them in everything from mannish woollens to womanish chiffons.

MODERN WOMEN

What to Do? Mrs. Martin Discusses Tea and Alcohol

By MARIAN MAYS MARTIN
HERE is something by way of a nice problem that came to me direct instead of through the mail. It involves some extremely nice folk who just don't jell because of alcohol in too liberal proportions is used by one group. There is nothing unusual about such a situation. Perhaps that's just why I feel it is enough of a problem to discuss. Both sides really miss out. The two crowds of whom I speak are town people and all the home sort of folk if one will, or rather the alcohol out of the situation. They have much in common but, and here is the rub, they don't ever come close enough to appreciate the fact because, when there is any entertaining in the home, it is either formally or otherwise going on. The drinkers are always left out. When they attempt to give a party, even though they are liberal enough with their ration of rum, they feel themselves out of the punch bowl or how many shakes of the shaker it takes to make their guests feel that it is a special party.

"We just don't know what to do for social life," the woman who was telling me this tale, wailed. "We like to meet all these people who are so smart and sophisticated and worth knowing, and no doubt they are when one contacts them in their saner moments. But how am I going to do it? The other set, the dependables, are too conservative for us, so what?"

Can't Walk In
"You know how it is," she continued. "You can't walk in on a hilarious party and get anything but a jolt out of it, besides one is not apt to want to walk in uninvited—ever, though one knows everyone else has."

"Most of the foregoing in the community is done on the spur of the moment. Crowds drop in and drop out and when some of the women plan a quiet little dinner for four before the course is reached there are ten or twenty assembled. And that number, in any community, is a party."

"Not being the sort who drop in uninvited we are always slipping up on parties that might be very enjoyable, up to a point at least."

A pleasant informality is what most people enjoy. It is always so much easier for the convivial folk to get together than it is for the more inhibited. Someone has a reputation for keeping open house, and sooner or later everyone seems to turn up there. If one isn't willing to be a drop-in there is no alternative other than to wait for invitations to tea.

After a Certain Point
I am not trying to make out a case for or against the cocktail or highball, but am simply attempting to paint a picture of the extremes. In some communities one must choose. The sober tea set element are not necessarily the dullards. Goodness knows there is nothing duller than synthetic wit and humor, but those who are attracted to the bubbling variety folk are inclined to look for them where ice cubes and not boiling water are the main asset. But after a certain point, conviviality gets to be pretty flat and tiresome and is tiresome to those who view the scene with a candid eye.

After all, it is the exceptional couple who are welcomed at both poles of society. It sometimes happens that those who are themselves teetotalers like the society of those who are not, but this is by no means usual. Such exceptions to the general rule are trusted to solve their own social problem.

Newcomers should bide their time before joining up with any group. It is entirely too easy to be immediately identified with the experience teaches that one's first choice is not always the choice one would make later on.

One thing is certain. To be entertained, or to be always welcome even in the open house, one must return hospitality more or less in kind.

The best way to let any group know it has any interest for you is to invite said group, as a group or individually, to one's own house, which was the only suggestion I was able to give the woman who hadn't found herself.

Beef Casserole
Get 2 pounds beef chuck and cut into pieces for serving. Roll in 2 tablespoons flour that has been mixed with 1 teaspoon salt and a few grains pepper. Brown in 2 tablespoons melted fat, then add 1 sliced onion and cook until it too is brown. Add a small amount boiling water, cover tightly and simmer until the meat is tender. Add enough canned tomatoes to the liquid in the pan to make 2 cups. Thicken with a little flour mixed to a smooth paste with cold water.

Add 1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce and 8 small onions that have been parboiled in salted water. Pour into a casserole. Cover top with dry baking powder biscuits and bake in a hot oven until the biscuits are done.

Veal Roulade
Get 1½ pounds veal round steak cut ½ inch thick. Pound with a wooden mallet as thin as you can make it and spread with a dressing made as follows: Mash the yolks of 2 hard-cooked eggs and 2 sardines to a paste, add 1 medium-sized onion, minced fine, ½ clove garlic, minced, 2 tablespoons cream, 2 sprigs parsley, minced, 1 teaspoon salt and ½ teaspoon pepper. Roll the steak, fasten with toothpicks or strings and cut into pieces 4 inches long. Heat 2 tablespoons fat in a skillet, add the rolls and brown on all sides. Add ½ cup boiling water, cover the pan tightly and bake for 1 hour in a moderate oven.

Add 1 cup light cream that has been mixed with tablespoon flour, and bake for 10 minutes longer with the cover removed. Serve with the sauce. Enough for 6.

Garnish with potato balls dressed with melted butter and finely chopped parsley.

This is delicious sliced and served cold with potato salad or a mixed green salad for luncheon or supper on a warm day.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Ready to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It sits in the bowels, gas builds up, your stomach, you get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sunk and the world feels junk.

Calomel is only a makeshift. A more powerful movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." Have some, get moving in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. Doubtless you'll feel anything else, too.

pleted and three panels were drawn a total of 161 people. Of the 12 who first stepped into the jury box the opening day of the trial none survived the ordeal. The thirteenth person, however, Mrs. R. Jeanette Leschinsky of Walnut Creek was retained. In one sense of the word, however, she was the 12th juror as one of the original 12 disqualified herself by saying she could not give the defendants a fair and impartial trial and was excused for cause.

READY TO GO

The trial, now that its preliminary stages are out of the way, will begin in earnest this morning. Certain stipulations have been entered into by prosecution and defense, which will materially shorten its length. Although the exact nature of the stipulations has not been disclosed, it is said that in order to avoid subpoenaing witnesses it will be conceded that certain of the defendants were employed in specified capacities at the dog track the night of the raid, and that certain documentary evidence seized was used in the operation of option selling.

QUICK FINISH

The rate of progress made at the morning session made the outlook dubious for the completion of the jury at the day's session but a touch of high life was interjected into the proceeding during the afternoon and matters came to a climax with astounding suddenness.

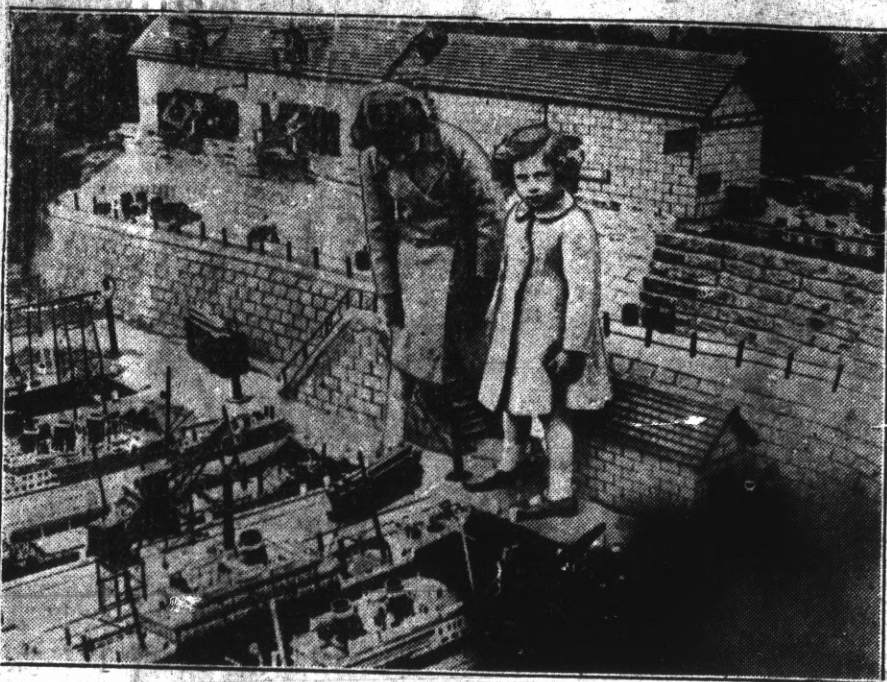

DON'T LIKE SLEUTHS

The astute Mr. Sullivan, of counsel for defense, did his clever best in his examination of veniremen to instill a little poison in the minds of veniremen against paid investigators, otherwise known as sleuths. Broadly hinting that the receipt of compensation for their undercover work rendered their testimony unreliable and unbelievable. The day previous he had broadly hinted his intention to give the sleuths rough treatment when they got on the stand, so some fun may be expected when the attorney and the investigators match wits.

PERHAPS THEY KNOW

Perhaps the 12 selected to pass on the issue involved will know what it is all about, but if they do it will be surprising to the many who have sat in the courtroom during the selection of the jury. There are seven defendants, each of whom is charged with three separate and distinct offenses and if the women and men can keep the defendants and the offenses together or separated, both of which will be necessary, they will be mental wizards.

CANDIDATE NOMINATED

If and when the Society for the Granting of Awards to Candid Men holds its session the name of Ray Charnock should be presented as a candidate for the highest honor that can be bestowed.

That sentence will cause some person of an interrogative turn of mind to rise up on his hind legs and inquire:

"Who in h— is Ray Charnock?"

The question deserves an answer for it is to be presumed, with no ill-suit intended, that Mr. Charnock is not well known outside of his own bailiwick.

He is, rather, was, a venireman in the dog track case and the reply he gave when being examined as to his qualifications created the impulse, even at the risk of being in contempt of court, to request the bailiff to pass Old Man Haggens, as doubtless that well known, historical character would be delighted to take Mr. Charnock by the hand and tell him his quest in search of an honest man was over.

After District Attorney Healey had asked Mr. Charnock dozens of questions, followed by Lep Sullivan, the canny attorney for the defense with a line of interrogatories, the final question put being whether there was any reason why he should not sit as a juror in the case? "None," he replied, "if I can get all the confusion straightened out in my mind."

With seven defendants and three charges against each, a half-hour quiz by the district attorney combined with elaborate and exhaustive statements of the law in connection with the case; with similar treatment at the hands of Attorney Sullivan and an occasional interjection by Judge Johnston to make clear some ambiguous or muddy question by counsel, a venireman is most likely, like music, to go round and round and feel like a whirling mental dervish.

By the time a venireman is reeled over by counsel, he is indeed more than a bright individual. He knows what it is all about, let alone being familiar with the score.

HIGHLY TECHNICAL

For he it known to all men, women and children, also—that this dog track trial involves a very high technical question. District Attorney Healey contends that the defendants were engaged in the legal pursuit of pool selling, and the speed and endurance of beasts, to wit dogs. No, no, chimed in Attorney Sullivan. "We will admit that a couple of the defendants here, did sell options on dog races, but that is entirely a distinct and separate affair from gambling as defined by Section 337A of the Penal Code."

SOMEBODY WRONG

Now one or the other of them must be wrong in his conclusions, and the jury is the body which will say which one. If the 12 people agree with Healey it is just too bad for the defendants; if they agree with Sullivan's contentions, then the seven defendants will go free and the dogs will be permitted to go their festive way in pursuit of the mechanical rabbit hereafter without fear of their masters, trainers and those connected with the amusement enterprise being haled into court. If there is a distinction between pool selling and option selling, the line of demarcation is very close, as all will agree.

The varied and various questions asked the veniremen outside of their age, residence, occupation, previous degree of servitude and other personal matters, all dealt in a general and also a specific way with the one vital point mentioned.

TAKE THE HURDLES

The vast majority of the talesmen have leaped over these hurdles with the greatest of ease, which is indeed a high tribute to their resourcefulness, skill and daring—that is all except Mr. Charnock, who frankly admitted that it was all a bit confusing. Now let no one get the idea that this same Charnock is dumb, by any means. He looks intelligent, acts as though he is a good business man and is in full and complete possession of his faculties. He operates an auto about two and one-half miles west of Pittsburg and his general demeanor betokens prosperity. However he is unique in the respect that of all the people who have passed through the jury box since this trial began, he is the only one who even inferentially would concede that he did not have a full and comprehensive grasp and understanding of all the problems involved.

However, he did not pass muster, going out of the box on a peremptory exercise by Attorney Sullivan. Despite his removal, there is hereby renewed his nomination for a place in the Hall of Fame.

MARCH IN AND OUT

giving of a dinner at $5.00 a plate, the proceeds to go for the purpose mentioned.

Richmond, using the word in a collective sense, embracing saint and sinner, cannot afford to have this house of worship fall by the wayside and go out of existence. It fills a place in the community life and is rendering valuable service. All that is now needed is a helping hand in its hour of need and we should extend it.

I sincerely hope that the city will respond to the worthy cause and not only maintain its reputation for generosity, but at the same time preserve one of the stabilizing influences which the world seems so badly in need of at the present time.

On Saturday, May 2, 1936 You Elect A School Trustee

This is one of the most important positions in the city. The welfare and happiness of the children of Richmond are always paramount issues.

Richmond schools are rated as among the best in the state; the teaching force is an able one, the scholarship standing here is high; the students who graduate are a credit to our local educational institutions.

There are many reasons for this condition, and one of them is the unselfish, untiring devotion to the interests of the children by

J. O. FORD, seeking re-election

Politics have always been kept out of our local schools. Men for many years have been elected as trustees, whose sole aim was the welfare and advancement of the children. By the close co-operation of the trustees and the City Superintendent of Schools, great progress has been made.

Ford's work as a Trustee, since Richmond was a village, has been such that he is entitled to the commendation of all. He merits re-election, as a reward for years of conscientious service.

Show by your vote on Saturday that you are not in favor of taking a step backward.
